UK Outlook for Monday 11 Oct 2021 to Wednesday 20 Oct 2021:
A north/south split at the start of this period with unsettled breezy conditions in the north, whilst the south remains largely dry with sunny spells. High pressure and mostly dry conditions are likely to then dominate the UK for much of the period, with only occasional spells of rain likely in the north and east at times. Overnight fog will continue to be a feature of the weather with light winds. Although chilly at first mainly in the north and east, temperatures are likely to be around or a little above normal for the time of year, but with chilly nights at times too. A change to more unsettled conditions may get underway by the end of the period.
